

Mwari and the ogre

Alice Kapolondo
English

Once upon a time there lived a young girl called Mwari.

Her parents used to send her to collect firewood near the forest, but with caution not to go inside the forest for the forest was full of dangerous animals and ogres.

As she looked inside the forest she saw a big dry log lying on the ground. One day Mwari went to collect firewood as usual.

She took the axe and entered into the forest.
As she started cutting the fallen tree into pieces she heard a big sound asking, " who is touching my firewood?"

Mwari was so scared, she tried to run but the ogre grabbed her by hand.

It told her she will make it's lunch meal by boiling in a big pot.

Her screams alerted other villagers who had come to collect firewood too

They ran back to the village and informed the village warriors who went to the forest to fight the ogre.

Although many of them were injured they managed to rescue her.

She learnt her lesson to obey what she was told.

Mwari and the ogre

Writer: Alice Kapolondo

Illustration: Catherine Groenewald, Jeremiah Dube and Wiehan de Jager

Language: English

© Kapolondo

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution
(CC-BY) Version 3.0 Unported Licence

Disclaimer: You are free to download, copy, translate or adapt this story and use the illustrations as long as you attribute or credit the original author/s and illustrator/s.

Saide
South African Institute for Distance Education

www.africanstorybook.org
A Saide Initiative